

Appendix 1: Histopathologic findings from a skin biopsy taken from the left forearm of a 69-year-old man with linear psoriasis, showing hyperkeratosis (white arrow), parakeratosis, Munro microabscesses (black arrow), attenuation of the granular cell layer and regular elongation of the rete ridges (*). (Hematoxylin–eosin stain, original magnification $\times 100$.)

